DR INDIKA SIGERA

STAFF ADVISOR, GAVEL CLUB,
UNIVERSITY OF MORATUWA

I am delighted to issue this message for the occasion of the nineteenth successive Speech Olympiad, the Intra-University speech contest organized by the Gavel Club of University of Moratuwa.

The Gavel Club of University of Moratuwa is an affiliate of Toastmasters International and it is an association of undergraduates that promotes public speaking & leadership development among students.

Speech Olympiad is the flagship event in the calendar of the Gavel Club of University of Moratuwa. It is an English speech competition held among students of the University and addresses a need which has been expressed time & time again by the industry, to develop the communication skills of the undergraduates.

Providing such a transformative platform, however, goes beyond merely hosting a contest. It is about creating an inspiring environment where students are empowered to step out of their comfort zones and confidently discover their voices. Bringing this vision to life requires immense dedication and meticulous planning behind the scenes.

I would like to thank the project co-chairs and organizers for their tireless effort and commitment in making this event a success despite their demanding academic schedules.

Finally, I would like to extend my best wishes to all the participants; I believe that the exposure and experience you have gained from participating in this event would help you to excel in the future career paths that you may take.

DEHAN WALAKULUARACHCHI

PRESIDENT

GAVEL CLUB OF UNIVERSITY OF MORATUWA

A voice has the power to inspire, influence, and ignite change, but before it can do any of those things, it must first be heard.

This belief lies at the heart of Speech Olympiad. More than a competition. It is a journey of self-discovery, where students overcome fears, build confidence, and transform hesitant beginnings into powerful expressions.

This year's theme, "Rise Within. Reign Beyond," reminds us that true growth begins from within. Every achievement and success begins with the courage to take that first step. Speech Olympiad is not merely about delivering speeches; it is about building confidence, developing resilience, and learning to believe in the value of one's own voice.

Having witnessed Speech Olympiad from different perspectives over the years, I have come to appreciate that the true strength of Speech Olympiad lies in the people who make it possible, the mentors who guide, alumni who inspire, organizers who work tirelessly behind the scenes, and participants who dare to challenge themselves.

Every edition brings together individuals with unique stories, ideas, and aspirations. While only one may be crowned champion, every participant who steps onto the stage achieves something meaningful: the courage to be heard. As we celebrate the Grand Finale of Speech Olympiad XIX, let us celebrate not only our finalists, but the growth and determination of every participant. Thank you to everyone who has contributed to this journey and helped make Speech Olympiad a platform that empowers voices and inspires future leaders.

May you continue to rise within, reign beyond, and inspire through the power of your voice.

Speech Olympiad XIX has been more than a journey of speaking - it has been a journey of rising. Every contestant who stepped onto this journey brought with them a different story, a different voice, and a different reason to stand here. Some stepped forward with confidence. Others took that first step with hesitation and fear. But with every round, every speech, and every challenge, we witnessed something truly remarkable - people discovering the courage to become more than who they were when they first began.

The phoenix has always represented the power to rise again - to turn challenges into strength and setbacks into new beginnings. That spirit has been the heart of Speech Olympiad XIX because this journey was never just about standing before an audience and speaking. It was about standing before your fears, finding your voice, and having the courage to let the world hear it. As the three co-chairs of Speech Olympiad XIX, it has been a true honour to witness this transformation.

We have seen contestants step out of their comfort zones, turn nervousness into confidence, learn from every experience, and discover strengths they never knew they had. And perhaps that is the true beauty of Speech Olympiad - the winner is not only the one who takes the crown, but everyone who walks away braver than when they arrived.

THE CO-CHAIRS

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XIX

None of this would have been possible without the people behind this journey. To our organising committee, mentors, judges, volunteers, supporters, alumni, and everyone who worked silently behind the scenes - thank you.

Your efforts may not always have been seen, but they were felt in every moment of this journey. And to every contestant who found the courage to step forward - remember this moment. Because the stage may end, the competition may end, and the crowns may be given.

But the voice you found here, the courage you built here, and the person you became here - that stays with you.

Rise with courage.

Speak with purpose.

And let your voice leave a mark.

This is the spirit of Speech Olympiad XIX.

This is the spirit of the phoenix.

EDITORIAL MESSAGE

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XIX

Every remarkable journey begins with the courage to take the first step. Speech Olympiad XIX has been a journey of growth, courage, perseverance, and self-discovery. Guided by this year's theme, "Rise Within. Reign Beyond," the journey has reminded us that the greatest transformations begin within us. Before we can rise beyond our limits, we must first find the courage to rise within.

Throughout this edition, we have witnessed contestants challenge themselves, step beyond their comfort zones, embrace setbacks, and discover strengths they may not have known they possessed. Every round brought new lessons, new milestones, and new opportunities to grow. In the end, Speech Olympiad has never been only about the competition, it has been about the person each participant becomes along the way.

This souvenir captures a part of that journey: the moments, memories, challenges, achievements, and people who made Speech Olympiad XIX possible.

Our heartfelt gratitude goes to our Co-Chairs, Ranuja Jayawardena, Minuli Methsani, and Pramudith Jayawardhana, for their dedication, leadership, and commitment throughout this journey. We also extend our sincere appreciation to the organizing committee, mentors, judges, volunteers, alumni, partners, and everyone who contributed behind the scenes to make this edition a reality. Our deepest thanks also go to the Board of 26/27 for their continued guidance, trust, and unwavering support.

To our finalists, congratulations on reaching the Grand Finale. You have already come a long way from where you began. As you step onto the final stage, trust the journey that brought you here, embrace the moment, and give yourself the opportunity to rise once more.

May the lessons you have gained, the courage you have built, and the person you have become through this journey stay with you long after the final applause.

CLUB VISION

GAVEL CLUB UNIVERSITY OF MORATUWA

Here, Fear Becomes Passion...

Since its founding, the University of Moratuwa has remained committed to nurturing individuals who are not only academically capable, but also confident enough to lead, communicate, and create an impact beyond the university. Recognizing that knowledge finds its true value when it can be expressed, shared, and transformed into action, the Gavel Club of the University of Moratuwa was established on May 2, 2005, creating a space where students could find their voice and grow beyond their comfort zones.

Nearly two decades later, that purpose continues to live on. Gavel Mora has grown into a community where students come together to develop the confidence to speak, the courage to lead, and the ability to connect with others. Through speeches, evaluations, discussions, workshops, and countless opportunities to take the stage, members are encouraged to challenge themselves and discover what they are capable of.

As an affiliate of Toastmasters International, Gavel Mora carries forward a strong tradition of developing communication and leadership skills. At the same time, the club offers a welcoming and accessible environment designed around the university experience. Here, mistakes are part of learning, nervousness is part of the journey, and every attempt to speak is an opportunity to grow.

Over the years, Gavel Mora has watched countless students walk through its doors with different levels of confidence and leave with something greater, a stronger voice, a clearer mind, and the courage to stand before others and be heard. Its alumni continue to make their mark across diverse fields, carrying with them the skills and connections built within this community.

But the legacy of Gavel Mora is not measured only by the achievements of those who have left. It lives in every member who takes the stage for the first time, every speaker who dares to try again after stumbling, every evaluator who helps another member improve, and every friendship formed along the way.

CLUB VISION

GAVEL CLUB UNIVERSITY OF MORATUWA

More than a club, Gavel Mora is a community. It is a place where people support one another, learn from one another, and celebrate one another's growth. It is a place where fear is not something to hide from, but something to face - and eventually, something to transform.

As we carry this legacy forward, our vision remains clear: to create a generation of communicators and leaders who can think boldly, speak confidently, listen meaningfully, and make their voices count.

Because every voice has a story.

Every idea deserves a stage.

And every person has the potential to rise beyond what they once believed possible.

Here, at Gavel Mora - fear becomes passion.

THE FINALISTS

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XIX

AMANDA ARIYAWANSA

The Gavel Club of the University of Moratuwa has always felt like home. We learn the art and grace of Public Speaking, and once a year we get a chance to put our skills to the test. I'm honoured to be a finalist in Speech Olympiad XIX, and so grateful for the guidance and love given to us by our mentors. To me, this competition is more than just a public speaking journey; I get to expand my boundaries and level up my game for the grand stage, all the while making some of the best memories in my university journey!

PRASHANI BHAGYA

I joined SO XIX because of the vibrant and warm community of Gavel Club Mora. I wanted to be a part of the journey, and it's such a privilege to make it this far. It hasn't been an easy adventure by any means, but it was fun, and I honed my craft a lot along the way. It was also a great opportunity to make new friends who were as passionate as me about public speaking. No matter the outcome, I'm immensely grateful for the journey so far. I'd like to thank Gavel Mora and the organising committee for putting together such a great opportunity where we can rise within and reign beyond

THE FINALISTS

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XIX

ANUJA MAHAMALAGE

I started my public-speaking journey two years ago in Toastmasters. Since then, whenever I got an opportunity, I competed. But Speech Olympiad is something I hold very dear to my heart. I competed in Speech Olympiad 17 and became a semi-finalist, but was eliminated there. This time, I've made it to the finals. And what makes this even more special is being here at my own university, with my own friends as the audience. What makes Speech Olympiad special to me is the journey, the people, and the memories. I wish everyone the very best in their public-speaking journey ahead.

THAMASHA GUNAWARDANA

I wasn't even a part of Gavel when I randomly came across a flyer for the Speech Olympiad this year. I never imagined that one small decision would lead me here. What started as simply trying something new became a journey of finding my voice, stepping outside my comfort zone, and meeting people I know I'll carry with me for a lifetime. I'm incredibly grateful for the mentors, friends, and the Gavel family who encouraged me, believed in me, and made this journey so memorable. I may have found the Speech Olympiad by chance, but I'm leaving with memories and people I'll cherish for a lifetime.

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XIX

JALAL WAHAB

Speech Olympiad has been far more than just a competition for me; it has been a journey of discovering how powerful a story can be when it is told with purpose. From the nervous moments before stepping onto the stage to now standing as a finalist, every round has challenged me to grow in confidence, creativity and courage. What makes this experience even more special is the incredible support I have received from my mentors, friends and the Gavel Mora family. Regardless of what happens on the final stage, I will always be grateful for the lessons, memories and people who made this journey one to remember.

Speech Olympiad VIII

OWN YOUR VOICE, EARN YOUR CROWN.

By Thilakshan Balakrishnan

And own it, they did.

Over the summer of 2025, more than a hundred voices rose to the challenge as students from across the university stepped forward to test themselves, face their fears, and discover the true power of their voice.

From day one, the competitors never stood alone. A series of workshops and dedicated mentors guided them through every stage of speechcraft and delivery. The halls of the Language Department, and later the Sumanadasa Building, rang with the sound of eager speakers rehearsing until their voices gave out, each of them driven by the same goal: to unlock their full potential.

After an intense, action-packed day at the Faculty of IT, twelve semifinalists emerged. Ahead of them lay the daunting test of impromptu speaking, but when the day arrived, the halls of ENTC 01 echoed with confidence and conviction, making it one of the most fiercely contested semifinals Gavel has witnessed in years.

From that battle came five finalists and a moment of history: for the first time ever, the final lineup was entirely female. In the days that followed, the finalists refined their craft further, with alumni sessions adding the final polish ahead of the Grand Finale.

Graced by the presence of cricketing legend Aravinda de Silva, the Grand Finale saw public speaking reach its peak. There were speeches that moved the audience to tears, speeches that filled the room with laughter, and speeches that simply left everyone in awe.

OWN YOUR VOICE, EARN YOUR CROWN.

By Thilakshan Balakrishnan

In the end, it was a Grand Slam for Chemini Mallikarachchi, who swept the Most Popular Speaker, Best Prepared Speech, and Best Impromptu Speech awards before lifting the Speech Olympiad shield as its 18th champion. Vino Wanniarachchi was crowned First Runner-Up and Hansali Kariyawasam Second Runner-Up, both delivering remarkable speeches that struck a chord with every heart in the audience.

As the curtains closed on another unforgettable season, one truth rang louder than any applause: every one of those hundred-plus speakers walked away a winner. Some left with trophies, but all of them left with courage, growth, and a voice they now know how to use.

The crown may belong to one, but the journey belonged to all. Until next time, keep speaking, keep inspiring, and keep owning your voice.

CHAMPION'S SPEECH

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XVIII

By Chemini Mallikarachchi

That's a beautiful crown...

Thank you, Contest Chair, for that compliment!

This crown has always made me feel special! Do you also have a crown just like this... that makes you feel special?

Contest Chair, ladies and gentlemen,
My dad gifted this to me on my fifth birthday.
One of my favourite birthdays! A day I actually felt like a princess! And ever since then, I always wore this crown on my birthdays.
But things changed once school started...
Because my birthdays? They were always sandwiched into the exam season. So, while other kids were blowing out birthday candles, I was blowing through boring textbooks. No parties. Just a cake and this crown.

Now, I was waiting for that one birthday to break this curse. My sixteenth. Or as they say, the sweet sixteenth. This time, I wanted it all!! The dream cake, the prettiest dress! Oh! I'd be a real princess wearing my crown this time! But as usual, my exams had their own plans...

Still, that day, I really hoped there would be a celebration for me... So, I came downstairs to study, waiting for my dad to bring my cake.

Now... one thing about my dad is that if you tell him to come at 7...

He shows up on time...

At eight. THIRTY!

Late or not, there it was finally... the cake I had been dreaming of! In a big white box on the kitchen counter. I couldn't help but take a peek inside. This cake wasn't a dream; it was a sad lump of chocolate. I mean- did someone sit on this?

That's when my brother made his grand appearance, holding an A4 paper; a sorry excuse for a birthday card, crumpled into bits.

"Oh gosh, you're sixteen already? Bro, you look like a ten-year-old!"

CHAMPION'S SPEECH

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XVIII

By Chemini Mallikarachchi

Before I could argue back, my mum made her grand appearance, saying, "Awww, our birthday girl is here! Come, come, let's cut the cake," while pulling out my crown out of nowhere and dusting off cobwebs from it.

She hands it to my dad, who places it on my head and says...

"Happy Birthday, Princess!"

"OHHHH, HOW ORIGINAL! LIKE WE'VE NOT DONE THIS FOR THE PAST TEN YEARS??"

Soooo... That's it? A smooshed cake, a crumpled card and a dusty crown?

This was supposed to be the perfect birthday.

Now, you can guess what happened on my 17th as well... right?

WRONG!

For once, exams finished before my birthday this time. At last, this would be perfect. This time, I made sure I did everything right! I designed the prettiest cake and placed the order. I bought the perfect dress, did my hair and even invited a few of my closest friends. All my dad had to do was bring the cake at 5.

So he would be here by 6. THIRTY.

But he was still not home that day.

"Ohhhh! He better be baking that cake himself if he's this late!"

This time I wasn't gonna let anyone ruin my birthday, so I called him... And this call was only answered at 7... thirty.

In the blink of an eye, we were in the hospital... then... the cardiology department. My Dad was wheeled into the operating theatre. Hours after the surgery, my mum finally told me that my dad was waiting to see me...

So I went to his room and then to his be “Happy Birthday, princess. I’m so sorry about your cake.”

“I don’t even have your crown with me... today.”

“Cake? Crown? Do they even matter, when I almost lost you... Dad?”

Back then... on my 16th I saw a smooshed cake, a crumpled card and a chaotic family that did the bare minimum. But today, I see a happy and healthy family that tried to make my birthday memorable.

I had always been a princess! Not bc of that rhinestone crown but because of the crown of love I wore every day.

Ladies and gentlemen, each and every one of you wears a crown. Not the kind you place on your head, but the kind your heart feels; a crown shaped by the blessings and love that surround you every single day.

Take a moment today to see your crowns because,

We don’t see the real crowns we wear... until life reminds us...

Sir over there, your crown looks perfecto!

Ma’am in the corner! I’m in love with yours!

Madam Chief Judge, that is a beautiful crown!

And Contest Chair, thank you for noticing my crown.

Not this one... but the crown my family gave me...

The very crown they’re watching me wear today, from the audience.

“WE WERE ON A BREAK!”

That was Ross’s excuse to Rachel in Friends after he cheated on her.

I know, right? MEN

Well, she didn’t buy it. Nobody bought it. But Ross? He repeated it again and again like finally it would be true. And if we think about it... don’t we all do the same thing sometimes?

When I was in middle school, I was selected for our school’s athletics team. They say athletes are born, not made. Well, I thought I was born to be one. We practised almost every day; I went to all the practice sessions, beach training, gym training, and I thought that I was ready... Then came my very first race. I was at the starting line, my heart was beating, I was Usain Bolt’s younger cousin... well, the shorter one at that...

The referee shouted: ‘One, two, three... BANG!’

“Wait... what?”

In every single one of our practice sessions, it was one ...two...three...GO! NO ONE TOLD ME THAT THERE WOULD BE A GUNSHOT!

And I thought to myself, if I can’t even bring myself to start a race, do I even belong in track and field? Maybe not... And just like that, I walked off the track and never looked back.

But I didn’t give up on sports completely. I joined netball. Back then, I used to be one of the tallest kids in our whole section, and I don’t know how and I don’t why my height suddenly decided to go on a starting from grade 9.

Still, I was chosen as our team’s goal shooter. My job was simple: once the ball got into my hand, aim it and put it inside the net. Easy right? Our coach told us to put in 100 shots per day... And I did exactly that.

And then there came this one crucial match; the scores were on a tie, and the ball was in my hands. The shot that would decide it all... Ladies and gentlemen, the ball is in the hands of the goal shooter. This shot would decide it all... She aims... she shoots... the ball brushes the hoop... OH NO, she just missed the shot’

1ST RUNNERS UP'S SPEECH

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XVIII

By Vino Wanniarachchi

‘Just like that, GAME OVER! No matter how hard I practised when pressure got to me, I couldn’t bring myself to do what I wanted to do.

And I thought to myself, if I can’t perform under pressure, do I belong in this court?

Maybe not...

And just like that, I stopped.

“I completely deviated myself from sports and joined Girl Guides.

The highest achievement that any Girl Guide can get in their lifetime was the President Guide Award. And of course I wanted that for myself. For that, we had to do 22 tests first, and the first one was the simplest of them all. The “Music lover” you just had to sing the national anthem and two other songs of your own choice, and I ladies and gentlemen, chose two songs that I very much loved and listened to those songs one too many times so that I wouldn't forget any lyrics.

And ladies and gentlemen, for the first time in the proud history of the 23rd Colombo Girl Guides company... someone failed the ‘music lover’ test. And that someone was me. It wasn’t funny back then. I cried my heart out and went to my mother: ‘Amma, if I can’t even pass the simplest test of all, how am I supposed to complete these tests? Maybe I am not meant to be a president guide. I want to give up”

“That’s when my mother looked at me and asked:

‘Is there anything in your life that you can say you have given your absolute best to? And for once, I couldn’t come up with those Ross-style excuses. I had nothing.

For athletics, I made an excuse, and for netball too I made an excuse, and I thought, no, not for this; I am going to give this my all. So I chose some songs that would suit my vocal range and practised them again and again, no matter how many times my brother shouted at me, “Shut up, my ears are bleeding”, I didn’t stop.

And guess what? I passed that exam.

And not to braaaaaaaag.. Standing before you is a president guide.

Ladies and gentlemen, don’t we all do the same thing sometimes? We make our failures an excuse to give up or to think that this isn’t meant for us. But whenever u feel that way, make sure that u give yourself

One more start

One more shot

One more chance

Because the story worth shouting is not the one with all the excuses.

It’s the one where you give your all.

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

SPEECH OLYMPIAD XIX

On behalf of Gavel Mora, we extend our deepest gratitude to everyone who contributed to the success of Speech Olympiad XIX.

We are deeply honored by the presence of our Chief Guest, Mr. Niranjan de Silva, whose gracious participation added immense value and prestige to this event.

We are also immensely grateful to our Chief Judge, TM Rosanne Ranasinghe Warakaulle, and all the Toastmasters who judged at the Preliminaries, Semi-Finals, and Grand Finale. Your expertise and commitment ensured a fair and inspiring competition.

We appreciate our valuable resource people from the Toastmasters community, TM Shamen Sameera, as well as our notable alumni, Amirthawarshini Ananthan, Thulasithan Gnanenthiran, Malintha Fernando, Umesha Tilakarathne, Linoja Mendis, Damsitha Adhikari, Chemini Mallikarachchi, Lakindu Kariyawasam and Jayoda Dissanayake, for their unwavering support in guiding our speakers.

A special thanks to our sponsors - Unikey Global, D & S Perera Constructions (Pvt) Ltd, Wickramarachchi Opticians & Hearing Care, Dr. K Derma Care, Hatton National Bank, Pearl Bay, Elephant House, Hameedia, Yardley London, and AIESEC CS - for their generous support that made this event a reality.

Our sincere thanks go to Dr. Indika Sigera, Staff Advisor of Gavel Mora, the Executive Committee, the Co-Chairs, Pillar Heads, and their committees, and all the mentors who dedicated their time and effort to this journey.

We also acknowledge all the contestants for their enthusiasm, our past Gaveliers for their continued support, and our current members for keeping the Gavel Mora spirit alive.

Last but not least, a heartfelt thank you to everyone else who contributed in countless ways. Your dedication and passion made Speech Olympiad XIX a resounding success.
